

OUR BRIDGES NEED WORK. SO DO WE.

MONTLAKE BRIDGE

GATHER FOR FOOD & REFRESHMENTS – 3:30 pm

NOVEMBER 17

RALLY – 4:00 pm MARCH – 4:30 pm

We have a jobs crisis here in Washington.

But instead of doing their part to get the economy moving again, Congress and the State Legislature are making more cuts.

We need to get people working on the jobs that need to get done.

The Jobs Act proposed by President Obama would invest $50 billion in immediate projects like fixing roads, bridges, and mass transit to get people working and get the economy moving. It wouldn't solve all our problems, but it's a big step in the right direction.

But some politicians keep saying no to jobs.

Instead of getting us back to work, they're demanding cuts to Social Security, health care, and education – cuts that we simply can't afford.

On November 17, people from across the area will converge at the functionally obsolete Montlake Bridge to demand our political leaders build bridges to good jobs – not make more cuts. Join us.

We need jobs, not cuts:

- 45 bridges in King County are "structurally deficient". 349 more are "functionally obsolete."
- $6 billion of repairs are needed in Washington's public schools.
- More than 800,000 people in our state don't have access to affordable health care.

Yes, I'll be there at the Montlake Bridge on November 17th.

Together, we'll make politicians understand how serious our jobs crisis is.
